

He is a great Englishman ~~whose memory~~ the future historians will doubtless enshrine with Pitt, Disraeli, and Walpole.

~~His~~ The British Prime-Minister arrived in Washington in full war time secrecy.
He was immediately taken to the White House where he is the guest of President Roosevelt. These two great leaders of the two worlds two great democracies are devising plans and broad strategy to combat and defeat the ruthless forces of the authoritarian nations who have forced us to join issue ^{with them} to the death. ~~the scope and~~ ~~the magnitude of the~~ ~~strategy~~ ~~stagger the~~ Good

"Blood, sweat and tears" was the solemn oath which Prime Minister Churchill promised the people of Great Britain in their dark hour.

"Blood Sweat and tears" they have suffered and ~~"Blood sweat and tears" they~~ must continue to suffer ere victory over a mighty foe comes within their embrace.
This great Englishman, who has led his people from ^{the} ~~Dunkirk~~ ^{desperation of} ~~dark hour~~ to the time when America has joined hands with them in an inflexible resolve to destroy and erase from the face of the earth the forces of aggression and tyranny, has come to us in our hour of initiation to the horrors of the grim art of war, bringing us cheer and courage, to be true, but reminding us that ~~lack~~ "Blood sweat and tears" must likewise be our unhappy lot as we engage in the shifting fortunes of war.

Those who have read the pungent, flowing prose of Churchill, per and those who ^{have} listened to his resonant, ^{simple} strident ~~yet~~ ^{grating} oratory, recognize in him the master of the language which is his inheritance. Perhaps no living ~~public~~ political leader can be favorably com pared with him in mastery of ~~the~~ both the written and spoken English. But it would be a mistake to think that Churchills ~~appeal~~ ^{mastery} of words, phrases and sentences was the major source of his strength as an orator and writer. True Oratory is truth simply and accurately told ^{and accurately} Churchill rightly ^{and} indicts the treachery and barbarism of the forces of enslavement and subjugation: he, with truth and realism, pictures to free men their duty and the necessity of fighting morning, sacrificing and fighting for liberty, freedom and equality. From this springs the deep moving power of his address.

The conferences have proceeded regularly, the only major interruption being Prime Minister Churchill's superb address to the American people in the Senate chamber.

Yesterday was perhaps the fullest day of conferences. They proceeded from early yesterday morning until late last night. President Roosevelt issued a statement to the people last night saying that as a result of the conferences the allied cause had been immeasurably strengthened.

7 The representatives if all the nations fighting the Axis were called into ~~the~~ conference ~~at~~ with the president and Churchill.

The Russian Ambassador was not overlooked. Perhaps most of the American people feel that ^{the} Russian dictatorship is no less obnoxious than

~~Hitler~~ of Germany Italy and Japan. Even though this be true the Russians are not trying to subjugate the world by force of arms. Of course we do not like communism but we must remember that the Russians are defending their hearths and homes against the same scourge which threatens our own freedom.
We are in mortal battle and we cannot afford to be Too particular who helps us. Let Russia be drawn in - Let us help Russia defeat Hitler - Hitler is the spear head of the whole movement of aggression. When he is defeated and crushed the job will be well nigh done.

~~Some~~ In addition to the conferences between Roosevelt and Churchill the ^{naval} and military ^{of the United S. and B.} ~~experts~~ have held extended and almost continuous talks, and of equal importance the economic and production experts of the two countries have mapped plans for the correlation and coordination of the industrial capacity for the most effective mobilization of the combined strength of both countries.
~~Some~~ considerable time was given to a discussion of such strategic supplies as tin ^{manganese} & Rubber, which is already subject to rationing.

Legislation will probably soon be requested and enacted to make rationing legal. This, however, is but one ~~of~~ phase of the ~~broad~~ comprehensive canvass of the complexities of modern war.

Indeed, the scope and magnitude of the strategy staggers the small human imagination.

~~It is~~ The world is the battle field. Our sword is unsheathed and and in comradeship of arms with our English cousins, whom we now ^{now} ~~shall~~ as brothers, ~~the sun~~ ~~shall not set~~ wherever battle wherever the tides of war may lead until victory is ~~to~~ ours. So far flung are the battlements, ~~that~~ the sun will not set upon our ~~for~~ armed forces until the enemy has been brought to terrible account. This is the plan and purpose of the conferences between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill. Their
maps are world maps.
Their plans are world wide. Their purposes encompass the ~~world~~ ^{Globe}.

The issue of the conflict is the freedom of mankind every where. Yes, it staggers the small imagination.
A world wide plan is so staggering that we as a nation were slow to seriously consider this war as a war waged for world domination.
Many of our people said that it was just another European conflict - just another of the interminable European quarrels.

We were reluctant to acknowledge that we were actually and gravely threatened. Ah! but we had a rude and stark awakening. Remember Pearl Harbor!

~~This is not~~ ~~the issue~~

The issues of the conflict are far bigger than European boundary lines. There is at stake the right to be free and to have self-government. There is at stake the right to live the Christianity in which men's lives and civilization must be based else they perish. In such a conflict we cannot doubt that the heavenly father will be with us, but remember that we are told that ^{the message from the Philippines is brief and will soon be worse,} ~~that~~ ^{that} ~~with~~ a year is but a day and a day is but a year.

~~We must prove ourselves~~ ~~worthy~~. The children of Israel were in the wilderness for forty years - Who knows but that we are being tried? Who knows the master plan? We must prove ourselves worthy - We must have faith that God will be with America as long as America is with God.

Good Morning Friends:

He is a great Englishman whose memory the future historians will doubtless enshrine with Pitt, Disraeli, and Walpole.

The British Prime Minister arrived in Washington in full war-time secrecy. He was immediately taken to the White House where he is the guest of President Roosevelt. These two great leaders of the world's two great democracies are devising plans and broad strategy to combat and defeat the ruthless forces of the authoritarian nations who have forced us to join issue with them to the death.

"Blood, sweat and tears" was the doleful lot which Prime Minister Churchill promised the people of Great Britain in their dark hour. "Blood, sweat, and tears" they have suffered and must continue to suffer ere victory over a mighty foe comes within their embrace.

This great Englishman, who has led his people from the desperation of Dunkirk to the time when America has joined hands with them in an inflexible resolve to destroy and erase from the face of the earth the forces of aggression and tyranny, has come to us in our hour of initiation to the horrors of the grim art of war, bringing us cheer and courage, to be true, but reminding us that "blood, sweat and tears" must likewise be our unhappy lot as we engage in the shifting fortunes of war.

Those who have read the pungent, flowing prose of Churchill's pen and those who have listened to his resonant, simple, strident, moving oratory, recognize in him the master of the language which is his inheritance. Perhaps no living political leader can be favorably compared with him in mastery of both the written and spoken English. But it would be a mistake to think that Churchill's mastery of words, phrases and sentences was the major source of his strength as an orator and writer. True oratory is truth simply and accurately told. Churchill rightly and accurately indicts the treachery and barbarism of the forces of enslavement and subjugation: He, with truth and realism, pictures to free men their duty and the necessity of working, sacrificing and fighting for liberty, freedom and equality. From this springs the deep-moving power of his address.

The conferences have proceeded regularly, the only major interruption being Prime Minister Churchill's superb address to the American people in the Senate Chamber.

Yesterday was perhaps the fullest day of conferences. They proceeded from early yesterday morning until late last night. President Roosevelt issued a statement to the people last night saying that as a result of the conferences the allied cause had been immeasurably strengthened.

The representatives of all the nations fighting the Axis were called into the conference with the President and Churchill.

The Russian Ambassador was not overlooked. Perhaps most of the American people feel that the Russian dictatorship is no less obnoxious than that of Germany, Italy and Japan. Even though this be true the Russians are not trying to subjugate the world by force of arms. Of course, we do not like communism, but we must remember that the Russians are defending their hearths and homes against the same scourge which threatens our own freedom. We are in mortal battle and we can not afford to be too particular who helps us. Let Russia be drawn in. Let us help Russia defeat Hitler. Hitler is the spear head of the whole movement of aggression. When he is defeated and crushed, the job will be well nigh done.

In addition to the conferences between Roosevelt and Churchill, the naval and military experts of the United States and Great Britain have held extended and almost continuous talks, and of equal importance the economic and production experts of the two countries have mapped plans for the correlation and co-ordination of the industrial capacity for the most effective mobilization of the combined strength of both countries.

Considerable time was given to a discussion of such strategic supplies as tin, manganese, rubber, which is already subject to rationing. Legislation will probably soon be requested and enacted to make rationing legal. This, however, is but one phase of the broad comprehensive canvass of the complexities of modern war.

Indeed, the scope and magnitude of the strategy staggers the small human imagination. The world is the battlefield. Our sword is unsheathed and in comradeship of arms with our English cousins, whom we now embrace as brothers, we shall wage battle wherever the tides of war may lead until victory is ours. So far flung are the battlements, the sun will not set upon our armed forces until the enemy has been brought to terrible account. This is the plan and purpose of the conferences between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill. Their maps are world maps. Their plans are world-wide. Their purposes encompass the globe. The issue of the conflict is the freedom of mankind everywhere. Yes, it staggers the small imagination. A world-wide plan is so staggering that we as a nation were slow to seriously consider this war as a war waged for world domination. Many of our people said that it was just another European conflict - just another of the interminable European quarrels.

We were reluctant to acknowledge that we were actually and gravely threatened.

Ah! but we had a rude and stark awakening. REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR!

The issues of the conflict are far bigger than European boundary lines.

There is at stake the right to be free and to have self-government. There is at stake the right to live the Christianity on which men's lives and civilization must be based else they perish. In such a conflict we can not doubt that the Father above will be with us. The news from the Philippines is bad and will soon be worse, but remember that we are told that with the Lord a year is but a day and a day is but a year.

The Children of Israel were in the wilderness for forty years. Who knows but that we are being tried? Who knows the Master's plan? We must prove ourselves worthy. We must have faith that God will be with America as long as America is with God.